D.C.—Nader v. Butz, C.A., 474 F.2d 426, 154 U.S.App. D.C. 178, on remand, D.C., 60 F.R.D. 381.

(2) Right of litigant to employ class action rule is procedural right only, ancillary to litigation of substantive claims; should these substantive claims become moot in Article III sense, by settlement of all personal claims for example, court retains no jurisdiction over controversy of individual plaintiffs.

U.S.—Deposit Guaranty Nat. Bank, Jackson, Miss. v. Roper, Miss., 100 S.Ct. 1166, 445 U.S. 326, 63 L.Ed.2d 427, reh. den. 100 S.Ct. 2177, 446 U.S. 947, 64 L.Ed.2d 804.

(3) If, on appeal from denial of class certification, it is determined that denial of class certification was proper and if named plaintiff's claim on merits has expired, case must be dismissed as moot.

U.S.—U.S. Parole Commission v. Geraghty, Pa., 100 S.Ct. 1202, 445 U.S. 388, 63 L.Ed.2d 479, on remand D.C., 552 F.Supp. 276, affd. C.A., 719 F.2d 1199, cert. den. 104 S.Ct. 1602.

(4) When court erroneously denies procedural motion which, had it been correctly decided, would have prevented action from becoming moot, an appeal from denial and corrected ruling "relates back" to date of original denial.

U.S.—U.S. Parole Commission v. Geraghty, Pa., 100 S.Ct. 1202, 445 U.S. 388, 63 L.Ed.2d 479, on remand D.C., 552 F.Supp. 276, affd. C.A., 719 F.2d 1199, cert. den. 104 S.Ct. 1602.

(5) For purposes of mootness, pregnancy is treated differently from some other conditions.

U.S.—Bernard B. v. Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Greater New York, D.C.N.Y., 528 F.Supp. 125, affd. C.A., 679 F.2d 7.

(6) Moot matter not shown.

U.S.—Deposit Guaranty Nat. Bank, Jackson, Miss. v. Roper, Miss., 100 S.Ct. 1166, 445 U.S. 326, 63 L.Ed.2d 427, reh. den. 100 S.Ct. 2177, 446 U.S. 947, 64 L.Ed.2d 804.

(7) Other statements.

U.S.—Free v. Landrieu, C.A.R.I., 666 F.2d 698.

Legislative courts

(1) Legislative courts may be granted jurisdiction over some cases and controversies to which the Article III judicial power might also be joining and two justices concurring in the judgment. U.S.—Northern Pipeline Const. Co. v. Marathon Pipe Line Co., Minn., 102 S.Ct. 2858, 458 U.S. 50, 73 L.Ed.2d 598, stayed 103 S.Ct. 199, 200, 459 U.S. 813, 74 L.Ed.2d 160, two cases (Per Justice Brennan, with three Justices joining and two Justices concurring in the judgment).

(2) Congress' power to create legislative courts to adjudicate public rights carries with it the lesser power to create administrative agencies for the same purpose, and to prove for review of those agency decisions in Article III courts.

U.S.—Northern Pipeline Const. Co. v. Marathon Pipe Line Co., Minn., 102 S.Ct. 2858, 458 U.S. 50, 73 L.Ed.2d 598, stayed 103 S.Ct. 199, 200, 459 U.S. 813, 74 L.Ed.2d 160, two cases (Per Justice Brennan, with three Justices joining and two Justices concurring in the judgment).

U.S.—Stanton v. Ash, D.C.Ind., 384 F.Supp. 625.

Case and controversy held presented

U.S.—Franks v. Bowman Transp. Co., Inc., 96 S.Ct. 1251, 424 U.S. 747, 47 L.Ed.2d 444.

The "capable of repetition, yet evading review" dimension of the mootness question is one of the policy rules often invoked by the United States Supreme Court to avoid passing prematurely on constitutional questions and finds its source in policy, rather than purely constitutional considerations.[80.7]

80.7. U.S.—Franks v. Bowman Transp. Co., Inc., Ga., 96 S.Ct. 1251, 424 U.S. 747, 47 L.Ed.2d 444.

Insofar as the concept of mootness defines constitutionally minimal conditions for the invocation of federal judicial power, its meaning and scope, as with all concepts of justiciability, must be derived from the fundamental policies informing the cases and controversies limitation imposed by the Constitution.[80.8]

80.8. U.S.—Franks v. Bowman Transp. Co., Inc., Ga., 96 S.Ct. 1251, 424 U.S. 747, 47 L.Ed.2d 444.

As a general matter, the Supreme Court may decline to entertain a complaint by a state against citizens of another state or country where, and only where, it can be said with assurance that declination of jurisdiction would not disserve any of the principal policies underlying the Article III jurisdictional grant and the reasons of practical wisdom that persuade the court that it is not an appropriate forum are consistent with the proposition that its discretion is legitimatized by its use to keep this aspect of the Court's function attuned with its other responsibilities.[70.25]

The Supreme Court has held that the erroneous standard of Rule 52(a) of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure does not prescribe the standard of review to be applied in reviewing a determination of actual malice in a case governed by New York Times v. Sullivan,[23.5] but appellate judges in such a case must exercise an independent judgment and determine whether the record establishes actual malice with convincing clarity.[23.10]

99.20. Change in Rules

Fed.Rules Civ.Proc. Rule 73, is now F.R.A.P. Rule 3, 28 U.S.C.A.

Under the Federal Rules of Appellate Procedure an appeal permitted by law as of right from a district court to a court of appeals shall be taken by filing a notice of appeal with the clerk of the district court,[99.21] and failure of an appellant to take any step other than the timely filing of a notice of appeal does not affect the validity of the appeal, but is ground only for such action as the court of appeals deems appropriate, which may include dismissal of the appeal.[99.21a]

59.30. U.S.—General Const. Co. v. Hering Realty Co., C.A.S.C., 312 F.2d 538.

The Federal Rules of Civil Procedure provide that when more than one claim for relief is presented in an action, the court may direct the entry of a final judgment as to one or more but fewer than all of the claims of the parties where there is no just reason for delay.[59.35] Although there is authority to the contrary,[59.40] under this Rule where an appellant prematurely appeals from a nonfinal order of a district court, but obtains a district court certification of appeal rendering the order final and appealable prior to a court of appeals' consideration of the appeal, a court of appeal has jurisdiction over the appeal,[59.45] at least where appellees do not seek dismissal of the appeal for lack of appellate jurisdiction[59.50] and do not claim prejudice as a result of the district court's belated action.[59.55]

Accelerated briefing and hearing

D.C.—Newell v. Ignatius, C.A., 407 F.2d 715, 132 U.S.App.D.C. 252.

In accordance with rules of court in the Fifth Circuit, placement of the case on the summary calendar for summary disposition of the appeal without oral argument is appropriate whenever the court concludes on the merits that the case is of such character as not to justify oral argument,[50.55] or where an appellant fails to file his brief within the time fixed by rules.[50.60]

A system of screening by a panel of judges is provided whereby, before a case goes on the summary calendar for disposition without argument, there must be unanimous action of the panel members; and in disposing of it, the decision must likewise be unanimous.[50.65]

As pointed out in N.L.R.B. v. Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America, AFL–CIO, Local 990, under Rules of the Court of Appeals of the Fifth Circuit, when the court determines that any one or more of the following circumstances exists and is dispositive of a matter submitted to the court for decision: (1) that a judgment of the district court is based on findings of fact which are not clearly erroneous; (2) that the evidence in support of a jury verdict is not insufficient; (3) that the order of an administrative agency is supported by substantial evidence on the record as a whole; (4) that no error of law appears; and the court also determines that an opinion would have no precedential value, the judgment or order may be affirmed or enforced without opinion.[50.70] On one or more of the factors delineated in this case numerous other cases in the Fifth Circuit have been placed on the summary calendar and decided without opinion.[50.75]
